

WOODMEN IN RIOT AT FULLON, ILL.

Trouble In Order Reaches a Culmination.

THE TOWN IS INVADED BY ROCK ISLANDERS.

Four Hundred of the Raiders Try to Carry Off the Books of the Head Office, and Went With Sturdy Resistance From a Force Ruled to Defend Them - Many Are Hurt In the Battle That Follows.

Fulton, Ill., Aug. 14.—Four hundred Rock Islanders fought a battle with Fulton men at 6 o'clock Friday night.
For three hours riot prevailed in front of the offices of the Modern Woodmen.
Guns, revolvers, clubs, paving stones, fence rails, bricks, fists and hydrant water were the weapons. The Fulton army was victorious. After the bloodshed was over the list of wounded was made up thus:

Fulton's injured:
CITY MARSHAL WILLIAM BEN-NETT, skull fractured; injury said to be fatal.
JAMES CARRIER, cut about head and arms.

L. D. PLANK, lacerations of the scalp.
EDWARD BARE, cut and bruised skull.

JACOB STROMBERG, cut about head and arms and badly bruised.

W. F. FLANAGAN, seriously cut and bruised about the head and body.

C. MILLER, Lyons, Iowa; cut on head.

WALTER FOWLER, head and arm cut.

AL SPENCER, face cut.

A. MANHEIM, dangerously cut on head.

Rock Island's wounded:
J. P. CASEY of Moline, severely injured on head.

L. V. ECKHART.

B. WINTER.

TED MISSLAY, injured in one side.

JAMES MULCAHY, cut on right eye.

ENGELHART SCHMIDT, probably fatally injured; head cut and otherwise hurt.

JOHN BELLS, cut on head.

CON O'BRIEN, Davenport; cut on mouth and face torn.

Many Rock Islanders were hurt, but none fatally. They refused to give names, and would not talk about their defeat.

The Rock Islanders have been trying for months to get possession of the books and official seal of the Modern Woodmen. Efforts have been made before this to capture the records, but without avail. A truce was brought about by two injunctions in favor of the Fulton constituents and an armed peace prevailed until Friday, when the injunctions which had prevented the removal of the books were dissolved by Judge Gest of Rock Island. Another injunction was refused the Fulton men by Master-in-Chancery McPhazen of Sterling.

As soon as the orders were made of record in the court the Rock Islanders boarded a train composed of three coaches, two box cars and a baggage-car, with the avowed intention to get possession of the books at any cost of blood. Many of the men were armed with pistols and stout sticks, but so far as could be learned in Fulton none of them had a copy of the court's order in dissolving the injunction.

News of the move at Rock Island was telegraphed to this city in advance, and a great body of citizens prepared for a siege. Scores of men armed themselves with clubs and paving stones or brickbats and awaited the arrival of the attacking party.

When the Rock Island crowd reached town a regular march was taken up toward the offices of the Woodmen.
The Fulton people held their ground on the battlefield without offering violence until the Rock Islanders began to use their fists and clubs. Then rioting became general. During this part of the battle the heads were broken.

Finally an armistice was arranged and Fulton stopped the removal of the books by a writ of replevin for unpaid rent.

Head Attorney Johnson, Modern Woodmen of America, has been arrested; also Engineer Mitchell of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy special, and a number of the Rock Island crowd are penned in their train by armed deputies. The matter is not ended yet.

What Rock Island Says.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 14.—The Rock Island crowd that went to Fulton to claim the head offices of the Woodmen were met by a desperate opposition on the part of the Fulton people, who tore up the track on either side of the special train, and then, with the assistance of a mob from Clinton and Lyon, the latter furnishing the rifles of the Iowa state militia company there, and, despite the fact that the invaders succeeded in loading most of the records into the cars, the Fultonites tore up the tracks and prevented the train from moving, and then with the armed force held the men in the cars until another temporary injunction could be got at Morrison.

THE BASEBALL REPORT.

pies the notch below the Colts. New York found Klobedanz easy and made more runs than they needed. Scores:

WEYLER HAS RESIGNED.

Captain-General of Cuba Gives Up the Struggle.

Havana, Aug. 14.—It is announced on what seems to be the best authority that Captain General Weyler has sent his resignation to Madrid. This report is generally believed to be true.
There is no doubt that the resignation of General Weyler is due to the assassination of Senor Canovas del Castillo, the premier of Spain, through whose personal wishes Captain General Weyler was retained in Cuba.

The report of General Weyler's resignation is a cause for satisfaction among Cuban sympathizers and reconcentrados, who, in the advent of another chief of the loyal Spanish troops in Cuba, see only relief from the "policy of conciliation" which has resulted in such suffering to the pacificos of Cuba.

Wheat Will Fall Short.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—The information has been obtained at the office of the chief grain inspector of Minnesota that the wheat crop of this state and North and South Dakota would run many millions of bushels short of expectations. The disappointing results were given as due in part to the late frosts in the spring, which cut the plant to the ground over a large territory and killed it completely to a large extent, although the latter fact was not fully appreciated at the time, the general opinion then being that the roots were not at all injured and that the plant would fully recover.

High Court of Foresters Adjourns.

La Salle, Ill., Aug. 14.—The high court, Independent Order of Foresters, will hold its next meeting at Danville, Ill. This was decided upon at the closing session of the convention, which was not adjourned until long after midnight Thursday. The time of last night's session was mostly consumed by discussion of a proposed change in the system of assessment, but settlement of the question was finally postponed for six months, when a special session of the high court will be held in Chicago.

Portuguese Troops Victorious.

Lisbon, Aug. 14.—It is officially announced here that the Portuguese troops surprised and routed the rebellions Mapulanques on Tuesday last, killing twenty-three chiefs and 293 of their followers, in addition to wounding many of the rebels. The Portuguese had two killed and four wounded. All the territory of the rebellious tribesmen has been laid waste.

France Suspends Tax on Wheat.

Paris, Aug. 14.—A decree has been gazetted temporarily admitting hard and soft wheat for milling purposes.
The official returns just published show that the imports into France for the past seven months were 20,217,000 francs below those of 1896. On the other hand, the exports foot up 177, 637,000 francs more than during the same period of 1896.

Call for State Troops.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14.—Gov. Tanner has received a dispatch from Fulton, Ill., asking that troops be sent there immediately to quell the riot among the members of the Modern Woodmen of America. The governor decided to wait until he received further advice from Fulton and will be better prepared to act in the matter.

Bismarck's Tribute to Canovas.

Madrid, Aug. 14.—Prince Bismarck, in his telegram of condolence to Senor Canovas, says: "I have never bowed my head before any one, but I bow it every time I hear the name of Canovas."

REVIVAL OF TRADE IS QUITE GENERAL

DUN REPORTS MARKED IM-PROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

Week Establishes a Record—Principal Clearing Houses Throughout the Country Show Larger Payments Than the Corresponding Week of 1892—The Failures.

New York, Aug. 14.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:
"Every city reporting this week notes increase in trade and nearly all bright crop prospects. The great change in business is emphasized by the presence of a multitude of buyers from all parts of the country, by their statements of the situation at their homes and, more forcibly yet, by the heavy purchases they are making. But the customary signs of prosperity are not lacking. The strong rise in stocks, the growth of bank clearings and railroad earnings, the heavy speculation in many products, but most of all in wheat, have made the week one of surpassing interest, even to those who best remember the upward rush in 1879. At the principal clearing houses throughout the country payments in July were, for the first time, slightly larger than in 1892, and 11 per cent larger than last year; in the first week of August 7.7 per cent larger than in 1892 and 28.4 per cent larger than last year, and in the second week of August they are 17.9 per cent larger than in 1892 and 38.1 per cent larger than last year."

"The great crops and the haste of foreigners to buy and ship wheat, in view of the shortage elsewhere, have made the week memorable. Taking of profits by a pool lowered the price 3 cents on Saturday, but it has since risen 5 cents. Western receipts, slow in July, have in two weeks been 7-239,133 bushels, against 6,722,362 last year. In all the great industries a large demand for products appears, with strong speculation in materials and in intermediate products.
"All textile industries are encouraged by a greatly improved and really large demand for goods, which causes many to advance in price. Speculation in wool continues, with prices about 1 cent higher, but sales of 23-499,800 pounds in two weeks show the willingness of some holders to realize.
"Failures for the week have been 239 in the United States, against 293 last year, and thirty in Canada, against thirty-six last year."

WILL BE HELD FOR TRIAL.

Convicts Implicated in Hinshaw Murder to Be Indicted.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—Noah Baney, the convict who has confessed to the murder of Mrs. Hinshaw, was taken back to the state prison at Michigan City Friday afternoon.
Since the sensational test made Wednesday night, when Baney was taken to the scene of the tragedy, and went over the story in detail, the prisoner has been kept at the Grand Hotel here and many people have been brought to see him in the effort to establish the whereabouts of Baney and his partners in the crime—Van Tassel and Whitney—before and after the murder. In this the attorneys declare they have done satisfactory work. The terms of the three convicts implicated by the confession expire within the next week, and steps will be taken to have them held for examination by the Hendricks county grand jury, which meets in September. The governor will not be asked to pardon Hinshaw until one of these men is convicted of the crime.

Building Trades' Strike at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—The strike ordered by the Building Trades' council on all school buildings was inaugurated yesterday. Nearly all work was stopped, the only exceptions being school buildings which the members of the committee appointed by the board of business agents were unable to reach. It is estimated that 2,500 men are affected by the strike. By to-night it is confidently asserted that not a man connected with any one of the twenty-two branches of organized labor in the Building Trades' council will have failed to quit his job on a school building.
Not only the union men are affected, but the men employed directly by the school board must go out.

Killed at a Barn Raising.

Bellaire, O., Aug. 14.—At a barn raising on the farm of W. W. Grove, in Kirkwood township, north of here, a large number of neighbors were in attendance assisting in the work, when, without a moment's notice, a heavy beam fell, killing one man instantly and fatally injuring four others. The dead: Charles Brown, aged 22. The injured: David Gordon, Frank Semple, Winfield Talbert, Weldy Shepherd.

Blacklisted by Railroads.

Mascoutah, Ill., Aug. 14.—N. G. Rogers, a telegraph operator, residing at Belleville, brought suit in St. Clair county to-day against the Illinois Central and the Mobile and Ohio railroad companies for $25,000 damages. He claims to be the victim of a blacklist.

John McGoff Dies in Montreal.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 14.—John McGoff of this city died at Montreal, Canada, of heart disease Friday, aged 43. He was supreme president of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America.

THE COAL STRIKERS ARE OUT IN FORCE

HAVE SURROUNDED THE CITY OF DECATUR, ILL.

No Trouble Is Reported - Work Proceeds As Usual At the Mines All Day Friday—Pennsylvania Strikers
Obey Injunction—President Dolan's Orders.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 14.—Decatur is surrounded by large bodies of striking coal miners and other idle men who have assembled in this vicinity, but everything so far is peaceful. Some of the miners who came out to learn the situation did not know that the strikers had been permitted to get so near to Decatur, and as they proceeded homeward they stopped to talk with citizens and merchants, speculating on what might happen should the strikers be permitted to hang around and harass them and their families.
The miners, to the number of 400, were at work as usual, and about 1,200 tons of coal were brought to the top. Most of it was taken to Chicago.

There was no work done at the Ni-antic mine Friday, because the men there were induced by the strikers to quit work at a late hour Thursday night. In the forenoon the strikers banded together at Niantic and marched on Decatur, headed by martial bands and flags, wagons following with loads of provisions. The sheriff was informed of the start and had his deputies two miles west of the city to intercept them. The marchers veered from their course when they learned that the sheriff was at the creek on the main road, but nevertheless the sheriff met them near the old fair grounds and ordered them to stop.
They did so without protest when they were satisfied that they were confronted by an officer. All went into camp, many of the members being completely tired out by the tramp of fourteen miles.

The strikers said they were law-abiding citizens and did not desire to fracture any law. Deputies were left to see that the strikers did not attempt to resume their march. There are about 200 persons in the party.

INJUNCTION STOPS MARCHERS.

Disorder When Miners Are Intercepted by the Sheriff.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 14.—The striking coal miners on the march to Plum Creek Friday morning came into collision with the law in the person of Sheriff Harvey A. Lowry, who stopped the march when it was about ended.
No arrests were made and the camps of the miners are still in existence, notwithstanding the court's order to disband. One deputy sheriff almost precipitated a riot by roughly handling a marcher. The campers at Sandy Creek and Oak Hill marched also.

President Dolan has issued orders that no marches should be made on any of the mines of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company until further orders, although marches may be made against other places. In place of the marching mass meetings will be held and speeches made as a means of keeping miners of the company from going to work.

Courts Are Defied.

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 14.—The labor leaders of the country publicly defied the courts Friday. By allowing them to do so the coal operators and United States marshals showed they are evidently afraid that public sentiment may, if sufficiently aroused, prove more powerful than the injunction. The officers had a chance to arrest, under Judge Jackson's injunction, the heads of nearly every labor organization in the country, but they did not accept the chance and the labor leaders are still free.

Decide to Quit.

Fairbury, Ill., Aug. 14.—The delegation of striking miners from other points met the Fairbury miners Thursday night in a secret session. After prolonged persuasive talk on the part of the agitators the majority of the miners voted to quit and join the army of strikers. A few were not changed by the talk, but quit the hall and went home. They declare they will continue at work, and it is not expected they will be interfered with.

Only Two Running.

Pekin, Ill., Aug. 14.—But two coal mines are at present being operated in Tazewell county, those of Bohlander Brothers and Grant Brothers, in this city, at all the other mines the men having come out. The mines now running are not shipping, but are supplying the home trade, keeping the factories and mills from shutting down and keeping a large number of men from being thrown out of employment.

Are Not Working.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 14.—Secretary Kennedy of the Indiana miners, who returned Friday from southern Indiana, says there is no truth in the report sent out from Evansville last night that the men there and at Littles, Ayrshire and elsewhere in the southern part of the state had returned to work.

Will Not Strike.

London, Aug. 14.—The postal telegraph clerks have decided not to strike, but to continue their agitation for the redress of their grievances.

LAST HONORS TO CANOVAS.

Almost Royal Ceremonies Accorded the Martyr Premier of Spain.

Madrid, Aug. 14.—The funeral of Senor Canovas del Castillo Friday was a most touching and solemn ceremony.
All the troops of the garrison lined the route along which the cortege moved; the flags were lowered and the public buildings, embassies, consulates and clubs were heavily draped with crape.
More than a thousand wreaths were deposited in the death chamber.

A peculiarly dramatic scene ensued as the duke of Sotomayor, Marshal Martinez Campos, Marquis Pago de la Merzed and the other pall-bearers lifted the coffin. Senora Canovas, in a clear, firm tone, said: "I desire that all should know I forgive the assassin. It is the greatest sacrifice I can make, but I make it for the sake of what I know of my husband's great heart."

Through the entire distance between the death chamber and the church the road was strewn with flowers and laurels.

Senor Sagasta headed the cortege, which was formed of militia, deputies, generals, admirals and delegations representing all the principal public bodies. The wreath of the queen regent rested upon the coffin, and other floral tributes were carried in special carriages.

All the shops in the city were closed, and a very large proportion of the populace that thronged the streets appeared in mourning garb.

The remains of Senor Canovas were interred in the family vault in the St.
Isidoro cemetery amid salvos of artillery and the tolling of all the bells of the city.

Scientists Elect Officers.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14.—The American Association for the Advancement of Science closed its convention here Friday by electing officers. The election of officers resulted in the choice of Prof. Frederick Ward Putnam of Harvard as president, L. O. Howard of the Department of Agriculture at Washington as permanent secretary, D. S. Kellicott of the Ohio State University as general secretary, and Frederick Bedell of Cornell as secretary of the council. E. E. Bernard of the University of Chicago was named as vice-president of the section on mathematics and astronomy, Warren Upham of St. Paul secretary of the section on geology and geography, and the various other appointive and elective offices were filled.

Anarchists Will Be Deported.

New York, Aug. 14.—Commissioner Powderly has requested the treasury department to cable to United States consuls in Europe and principally in those in Spain, France, Italy and Germany, requesting them to keep a sharp lookout for anarchist emigrants to America and to notify him by cable when any one of them embarks for the United States. They will be deported as fast as they arrive.

Waiting Reply of the Powers.

Constantinople, Aug. 14.—Some of the ambassadors have not yet received the replies of their governments in regard to the evacuation compromise proposed by the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, Tewfik Pasha, but it is believed the compromise will be accepted and that peace preliminaries may be signed to-day.

Miners Have $3,000,000 Cashed.

New York, Aug. 14.—A Tacoma special to the World says: "Captain George Roberts, who will command the City of Seattle, which leaves this port in a few days for Alaska, has just returned from Dyea. He says that two months ago there was to his certain knowledge gold to the amount of nearly $3,000,000 cached in the interior ready to come out this fall."

Troops for Afghan Frontier.

Simla, Aug. 14.—It is officially announced that two complete reserve brigades will be concentrated at Rawalpindi, each comprising several battalions of infantry and cavalry, with field and mountain batteries and sappers. This decision is probably the result of the rumored Afghan complicity in the tribal insurrections.

Will Not Recognize Cubans.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 14.—The New York Herald correspondent in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, reports that a poll of the congress shows that the resolution to recognize Cuban belligerency will be defeated. Four hundred Brazilian troops have arrived at Rio Janeiro from Canudos, the scene of the recent big battle with the fanatics.

Confirm Blockading of Passer.

Astoria, Oregon, Aug. 14.—The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's steamer George W. Elder has arrived here from Dyea. The Elder left Dyea on the 9th inst. Her officers confirm previous reports that both the White and Chilkoot passes are blockaded.

Tobacco Not Released.

Washington, Aug. 14.—So far as is known at the State department there has been no general order issued by the Spanish government for the release of all of the tobacco held in Cuba for export to the United States, under the prohibitory rule of Captain General Weyler, issued last year.

Prepared for an Uprising.

Madrid, Aug. 14.—Military precautions have been taken for some time past against the possibility of a Carlist or republican rising, and the steps taken have been increased recently, chiefly here, at Barcelona, Bilbao and at Seville.

FIRE AT PORTAGE WITH HEAVY LOSS

GROCERY STORE AND PRINTING OFFICE BURNED

Boling & Company Will Lose About
$3,000 and The Democrat Printing Company, Whose Office Was Above the Store, About $6,000—Flames Discovered Early This Morning.

Portage Wis., July 14.—[Special]— Fire this morning destroyed the grocery store of B. Boling & Co., and the printing plant of the Portage Demo-

TOBACCO CROP FINE; HARVEST UNDER WAY

NOW IS THE CRITICAL TIME WITH THE WEED.

Unless Something Unforeseen Happens,
the Leaf Will Break All Records—Edgerton Market Is Quiet, But the Janesville Market Is Quiet Lively —Gossip From Warehouses.

The critical season for the tobacco crop is now at hand, where the plants have attained their growth and are fast reaching maturity, the Edgerton Reporter says: It is a time when a few moments of hail or a severe wind storm will accomplish a vast amount of damage. These contingencies, however, the growers must figure against as a part of the risks attending tobacco growing. The writer cannot recall a season when patches of hail has not covered some portions of the tobacco districts of this state, varying of course in the amount of damage done to the growing crop. Some years the loss sustained has been large where the section visited was a heavy growing district. Already this season hail has fallen in three localities of the tobacco section of the state and yet the area covered does not equal that of a single township. The most severe storm was probably that in Vernon county on Monday morning, where hail is reported to have ruined the tobacco through the track of the storm. The first reports of such damage are almost invariably over estimated and often when tobacco has been alleged to be "ruined" a good deal of salvage is frequently obtained. The storm damage to the crop in a tobacco section that covers several counties rarely figures but a fraction of the crop.

But Little Trading Done
The long looked for revival of trade in the cured leaf markets has not yet reached this state and transactions of the week are confined to a limited amount of trading, the Reporter continues: T. A. Ellington reports the sale of 40 cases lot of export goods at Janesville the sales are, S. B. Heddles 23 cases of '93 stock; Charles Grundy 90 cases of old stock and George H. Rumrill 80 cases of '95 goods.

The first of the new crop is being harvested this week, having matured in excellent condition—large growth and sound. The later set fields continue to come forward uninterrupted under the favorable weather conditions. Growers inform us that the crop ripens very rapidly this season, which will necessitate a good deal of hustling to keep pace with the harvest. The particulars of a severe hail storm which visited Vernon county early in the week, are given elsewhere in this issue.

Local dealers are doing some riding in the growing districts and keeping tabs on the most promising fields as a guide for later business.

The shipments from this station do not exceed 200 cases to all points for the week.

The Harvest Is Begun.
The harvest of the new crop has been commenced on the farms of Pomeroy & Pelton and John Kramer in Fulton. Mr. Kramer shedded the first on the 7th inst., the earliest date coming to our notice.

B. O. Shannon received a letter from his son Charley, who is in Westby, Vernon county, Wednesday, which states that four-fifths of the tobacco tributary to that market was ruined by a severe hail storm that visited that section Monday morning.

And still another large warehouse to be built in Edgerton this fall. P. C. Brown, some time in September, will begin the erection of a fine storage warehouse. It will be built on the site of the old grain elevator. Janesville Market Revives.

Our market is slowly but surely arousing itself from the mark of lethargy it has been in for the past two months, and is beginning to display some life, says The Leaf. August is always a dull month and the present month is no exception. After a few weeks new samples will be drawn and business will doubtless make a change for the better.

Among the sales of old goods reported are: 300 cases of old goods sold by L. B. Carle to Bamberger & Co. of Philadelphia; 90 cases by Joseph Grundy on a recent trip to Illinois and Missouri points; 80 cases of '95 by George H. Rumrill to eastern parties, also 20 cases by S. B. Heddles.

The sampling season is near at hand and all are eager for stripped samples of the '95, which now gives every promise of coming out as sweet as a peach.

Harvesting has been begun in this section in a limited way, and by next week will have become quite general. It is really a slight good for sore eyes to travel about this county at present and inspect the hundreds of handsome crops to be seen on all sides.

The Leaf's Local Notes
J. M. and M. F. Greene started a force of girls last week making long strips.

Henry Miller, the popular leaf dealer, was down from Stoughton, Monday.

The tobacco harvest has commenced on some of the Janesville plantations. A. S. Flagg and James Stewart of Edgerton, were in the Janesville market last Saturday.

Joseph Grundy is shipping ninety cases of old goods this week, to fill orders taken while on the road last week.

Ed. Murphy has a force at work, and by next week the harvesting of the crop will be general at this point. R. J. Maltress touched at Janesville yesterday after an extended trip through the southern part of the tobacco district, and reports crops looking fine.

George H. Rumrill has been drawing in 234 cases of '96, sorted in the Roberts tobacco shed, Pleasant street. That, with the large number of cases already stored in the building, rather crowds matters.

Messrs. Soverhill & Porter, one of the leading firms of packers and dealers of leaf tobacco in Wisconsin have spent their vacation this summer in managing a plantation of about 20 acres of tobacco for their own account. They have a force at work today and have commenced harvesting in earnest. Sant and Will are favorites in the trade and if the hail and frost will pass them they have nothing to fear from the trade either domestic or foreign.

TRAMP WAS A VETERAN

Gave The Countersign of the Union League and Found a Friend.

A man was arrested for vagrancy and taken before the police court at Beloit proved to be an old soldier. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $2 and costs and in a discussion that took place maintained that a soldier should be dealt leniently with.

"You were a soldier, were you, asked Judge Booth.

"Yes, I served three years in an Illinois regiment and belonged to the Union League," and he uttered some words which, without significance to others present, brought E. H. Brown to the side of the speaker instantly. There was a handshake and hurried consultation and the tramp had a friend at once. Mr. Brown pleaded for the release of the prisoner, and Justice Booth consented to suspend the sentence if the visitor would leave the city.

"No, I never saw him before," explained Mr. Brown, "but he gave the countersign of the old Union League, a patriotic organization, to which I belonged during the war. This made us friends."

GOSSIP FOR THE WHEELMEN

A LARGE number of the members of the Golf club now have bicycles.

FRANK SLAWSON and C. C. Seales wheeled to the Line City last evening.

F. RANDALL has disposed of about eighty Bowler City bicycles this season.

JOHN HARRINGTON and Percy Manger expect to wheel to Rockford tomorrow.

HENRY BALDWIN is home from an extended visit near Camp Douglas, a portion of his trip being made on his bike.

CHIEF HOGAN says riders are getting careless in not providing their wheels with lamps, and arrests are likely to follow.

TURNKEY Samuel Brown took the names of several riders on the street last evening, who failed to have lamps on their wheels.

Miss GRACE MOUTAR, while riding her wheel down the Milwaukee street hill last evening, was thrown violently to the ground as the result of colliding with a dog.

THE South Main street electric car came within three feet of running over James Root and his wheel, near the Spring Brook bridge. Root, while endeavoring to pass the car, slipped and fell on the car track.

A DELEGATION numbering ten wheeled down from this city last evening to Beloit to witness the cycle races given at Gram's bicycle track under the glare of electric lights. The meet was well attended and those from this city in attendance report a most pleasant time.

AMONG those who wheeled down from Milton yesterday to witness the Clinton-Milton game were Mrs. Helen Green, Miss Gertrude Davidson, Miss Nettie Carey and the Messrs. R. Davidson, H. Brulls, L. Brown, Walter Sweeney, Harry Holmes, Johnson, Ernest Stone, Burt Carey, A. C. Goodrich and Leon Burdick.

TRUE AND STRONG.

After all the dark, sad days,
My heart has stronger grown,
The love that thou didst give to me
Is the sweetest joy I know.
Since thy dear hands were clasped in mine,
This seems a grander life,
And yet alas how sad my life,
For I cannot call thee wife.

But safe within my soul today
A love I hold, for long, for long,
Thank heaven for that, it gave me strength;
Will make me true and strong,
But O, my love, until I die
I'll never forget thy memory sweet,
My whole life, of thee I'll dream Until in heaven "we too" meet.

she has been the past two weeks, visiting relatives and friends. She enjoyed her visit very much, and returns much improved in health.

Lex Jones and family of Milton Jun-cion, spent Sunday at the home of Robert Murwin. The quarterly communion services of the church will be held on next Sunday morning, Aug.
15. Rev. George R. Chambers of Milton, will occupy the pulpit morning and evening, exchanging with Rev. B.
F. Martin. Mrs. Mary Murwin visited her mother in Janesville, Tuesday.
She found her very poorly and she may be taken to the hospital at once.

The family of Ephraim Raymond have nearly all been sick of late, their home being what might be termed a small hospital. Mrs. Raymond is improving from her sickness of the past month. Charlie and Lennie, who have been quite sick the past two weeks, are on the improve.

CLINTON HARVEST IS ENDING
Work is Nearly All Ended—Farmers Feel Well Satisfied

South Clinton, Aug. 13—The work of harvesting is now very nearly completed to this community. The grain and hay crops were exceptionally good and bids fair to be a splendid crop, tobacco likewise. Ohinch bugs did but little if any damage. Hog cholera is not yet in sight. Prices are better, the weather is fine and the ripples of returning prosperity seem to tinkle us all around. Last fall we did not have a single calamity howling popocrat in our midst. Perhaps that has nothing to do with the case. A book agent—the only pest of this season—recently carried away $75 the result of one day's work. H. D. Lanfelli's resort at Delavan Lake is becoming more and more popular with our people. This week a party of young ladies are encamped there including the Misses Anna, Emma and Ida Duxstad, Anna and Sarah Tillerson, Hilda and Nellie Steenerson, Margaret Johnson, Mary Larson, Gertrude Nelson, Lillian Lawson and Martha Newhouse.

Henry Nastesta is still in Chicago receiving treatment at the hands of a specialist. Frank Sillerson visited friends here last week. Miss Lillian Lawson of Chicago, is spending her vacation with friends here. Elling Arneson has nearly completed the erection of a very neat dwelling house on the ground he recently purchased off the C. R. Matson farm.

JOHNSTOWN SOCIAL TUESDAY.
Christian Endeavor Society Arranges An Entertainment for Aug. 17.

Johnstown Center, Aug. 13—The United Society of Christian Endeavor will have an ice cream social at the home of D. W. Briggs, Tuesday evening August 17. All are most cordially invited to attend. The Ediscop show given at Franklin hall, Tuesday night, was quite well attended. All report a good time. Mrs. O. Anderson of Milland, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G.
M. Chandler. Charles Stoller is carpentering for R. E. E. of Millard.

Mrs. H. Rogers and daughter, Daisy, of Janesville, are visiting Mrs. George Walker. George M. Chandler is carpentering on the prairie, for Almiron Randall. The farmers are taking advantage of the fine weather to do their threshing. Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGowan and two children, of Clear Lake, Iowa, are visiting at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGowan. Mrs. I. L. Reese and two children, of Lima, spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. G. M. Chandler.
Wheels are flying around quite briskly nowadays, on the fine roads.

PLUCKY GIRL RODE
TO ST. PAUL ON BIKE

MISS LILLIAN FORD TOOK LONG TRIP.

Beloit Servant Girl Pumps Her Wheel
From the Line City and Brings Up At Her Destination Without Money —Sleeps at a Police Station, and Gets a Place to Work.

Lillian Ford, a Beloit servant girl, has plenty of grit. About a week ago, Miss Ford left the Line City on a bicycle, for St. Paul. She passed through Janesville, but the local friends to whom she told her story, thought she was joking. She told the truth, however, as the following from the St.
Paul Globe, shows:

"A very tired appearing young woman turned a bicycle into the central police station late Saturday night and asked for lodging. Any one who seeks a place to spend the night is accommodated at the station, and the request coming from a comely and neat woman besides, was readily granted. The girl was apparently alive to the incongruity of her situation, and without questioning, old her story. Her name is Lillian Ford, she said, and she was looking for employment. She had lived at Beloit, Wis., for several years, working as a domestic, but of late she had found it difficult to obtain employment there, and decided to seek the Twin Cities.

Bought a Bicycle.

"By a judicious saving of her earnings Miss Ford said she had been able to purchase a bicycle and had become much attached to her wheel.
She had but little money with which to make her contemplated trip and so concluded to ride across country on the bicycle. Starting from Beloit last Thursday she wheeled toward St.
Paul until Saturday afternoon when her strength began to fail. Having a little change left after paying for lodging at farm houses nights while on the way, she boarded a train at Camp Douglas Wis., and reached the city Saturday evening.

"Capt. Rouleau listened intently to the young woman's story, and after she had been taken to the woman's ward by Matron Cummings, told his assistant to look after the station and vanished into the darkness in the direction of an all-night restaurant.

When the big captain came back a few minutes later, he carried a good sized package of edibles under one arm and nonchalantly swung a pot of steaming coffee in the other hand.

Got Supper For Her

"That girl has had no supper," he exclaimed. "She didn't say so, but I know from her looks she's hungry.
Take these things upstairs."

"Miss Ford ate the meal with relish, and dispatching her thanks to Capt.
Rouleau, refreshed herself with quiet sleep, notwithstanding the mauling songs and jests of half a dozen drunken prisoners in the cells above her.

Yesterday morning she left her bicycle at the station for several hours, when she returned and announced that she had secured a position with the family of a St. Anthony hill physician."

Excursion Tickets to Juneau

Anything to win is the motto of Boss Gorman. Having thrown a sop to the gold democrats in his platform, he is now trying to placate the anti-Gorman democrats by allowing the story that he will not be a candidate for reelection to the senate to go uncontradicted. As the republicans are likely to carry the Maryland legislature, it is not probable that Gorman will care to be a candidate for an empty nomination; but should the democrats by hook or crook elect a majority of the legislature, he will be a candidate for reelection all right.

The popocrats who are now willing to acknowledge the return of prosperity ascribe it to Providence. That's right! Providence brought about the election of President McKinley and a republican congress, without which the Dingley tariff, the direct cause of better times, could not have become a law.

From every direction comes the good news of a business revival that extends to every branch of trade and industry, and this too, let it be remembered, in the season when dullness is naturally expected. Things will hum next winter.

Large American and small European crops make this a very bad year for any European country to try the game of tariff retaliation against the United States.

The silver miners are up against another deal that hits them harder than the voters did last November.

ON A NOVEL TRIP

E. G. TERRILL, OF NEW YORK, WAS HERE.

If He Rides From That Place to San Francisco In Five Months and Earns $500 On the Way, He Will Win a Wager of $5,500—Expects to Be Able to Do So.

Edwin Terrill, who is crossing the United States on a bicycle—from New York City to San Francisco—in hopes of winning a $5,500 wager, pushed his wheel into Janesville last night at 10:30 o'clock, and staid until this morning at the Hotel Myers.

Without a cent in his pocket, Terrill left the New York office on June 5 with the understanding that he was to ride to San Francisco and return on his own bicycle, completing the trip within five months time and to have in his possession $500 in cash on his return, the money to be earned by himself while en route.

Not in the least discouraged was the rider as he stood in the hotel office this morning, looking over a bicycle map of the United States. On this map he indicated with dark lines, the route that he had yet before him. Attired in a neat suit of gray, with a white duck cap, Terrill did not look like the man who would undertake such a trip. He was small in stature and slim, giving him the appearance of lacking in muscle.

On arriving in the city last evening, the rider drew a little book from his pocket, in which he had John F. Sweeney, Beaumont Deforest and J. G. DeLong place their signatures as evidence that he had been in the town.

Mr. Terrill stated that he was not allowed to beg, but that times had been good with him, and he had been able to make about one-half the $500 required to be earned on the journey.

Mr. Terrill arrived last evening, from Oconomowoc, and this morning left for Madison and St. Paul. He expects to accomplish the journey on time.

THEY FAVOR THE COAL MINERS

Janesville people did not back the miners they were a pack of cowards.

O. F. Nowlan said he had spoken his piece eighteen or twenty years ago in the council when the city was paying $1 a day for labor. He asked that they be paid living wages and it was raised to $1.50. He had always opposed strikes. When men got $4 a day and worked eight hours they had no occasion to strike and he had always said he was against strikes, but if he lived in a country where he had to work for 89 cents a day and then had 17 cents cut from that he might not be very peaceful.

No Violence Permitted

W. G. Wheeler pointed out that the miners had engaged in no acts of violence and had only by argument induced men to come to their way of thinking. They were entitled to the support of the citizens so far as they could give it.

B. F. Blanchard doubted if the miners would accomplish anything by striking and believed a better way to settle such affairs was by arbitration. The arbitration idea found few backers in the meeting and caustic comment was developed.

On motion of E. M. Hyzer the appointment of a committee of five to solicit funds for the strikers was left in Mayor Thoroughgood's hands, and the mayor was given twenty-four hours to complete the list. The mayor referred to a business man who had said: "We have poor enough of our own."

"We have enough poor here in Janesville, I know," said Mayor Thoroughgood, "but thank God they are not as poor as these men."

Before the next meeting closed Delegate Muir expressed the thanks of the miner to Janesville people for their hearty cooperation.

FAVOR THE MINERS IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

JANESVILLE PEOPLE SHOW THEM SYMPATHY.

Resolution Is Adopted At Last Night's Public Meeting—Edward M. Hy-zer Presents It And It Is Carried Without a Dissenting Voice—Speeches Made By Several People.

RESOLVED, By the citizens of Janesville, in public meeting assembled, that we believe, from the best evidence we have, that the striking miners have just cause for complaint and are entitled to our sympathy and assistance; that we believe wage-workers have the right to combine and submit their case to the public; that we believe in the right of free speech and free public discussion; that we believe that interference by injunction with the right of peaceable assembly and public discussion is unjustifiable and contrary to the spirit of our institutions.

Janesville business men united in vigorous denunciation of the Illinois mine owners, last evening. The meeting in the council chamber was well attended. Mayor Thoroughgood was in the chair, and said in opening, that he seldom felt like endorsing strikes, but said:

"It is no use of my speaking of the 76 cents or 95 cents per day these men in the Illinois coal mines are earning. We all know the dangerous kind of work coal mining is. We talk of the pauper labor of Europe. We need not go there to find it; we have it right here in America in a much worse shape so far as the poor miner is concerned, and it is getting there in other trades, unless a reaction takes place. I do not believe there is a man here tonight or in the city but what is in sympathy with those coal miners and their families, and my personal wish is, that the present trouble will end in their being victorious."

John Muir, of the strikers' committee, was called out. Simply, and with a rugged directness that was full of eloquence, he told of the conditions in Springfield. The men were asking for nothing but last year's prices, 89 cents a day. They had been out 17½ cents. Last week at the convention at Springfield they had made the scale of last year's prices. The miners did not want to strike, but there was no living in the wages they got last year. They were willing to go back to work at the old prices, but take 17½ cents a day from 89 and what can be expected? The average pay in the month of June was 56 cents a day and work three days out of a week.

E. M. Hyzer Favored The Strikers.
E. M. Hyzer was called for, and reviewed the mining situation. He believed it was well for every community to discuss and consider the matter fully. Action taken in one town had its effect elsewhere. He called to his hearers' attention the fact that coal mining was almost a public occupation. The mines must be worked or business must cease. The operation of the mines was as fully important as the railroad or any other industry, but at the present scale of wages the men working them could not keep body and soul together.

Mr. Hyzer described the method of paying miners in the Illinois belt—the men getting nothing but the lump coal that has passed over a 1½ inch screen. For mining the hundreds of tons of nut coal and pea coal sold at the mines for $1 a ton, the miners do not get a cent.

Mr. Hyzer declared that the miners were entitled to the sympathy and money of the people. They were entitled to much better treatment than they had received from courts and authorities.

Government By Injunction.
"What treatment are the strikers receiving in this free land? Have we yet heard of violence and outrage from these men, notwithstanding that they have been hungry for a week? What are they trying to do, but assemble lawfully and discuss the question with their fellow workmen? And if they do this, or go peacefully to other mines and tell the miners of their plight, they are met with injunctions."

"The people of this country must understand this question of injunction before many years. If they don't these men who have been receiving these injunctions will find they have been sitting on the safety valve. If the people are to be restrained by injunctions from struggling for bread and butter or for bread without butter; if they are to be restrained by injunction from free discussion of such gigantic problems, then this government cannot long endure." [Cheers.]

A Strong Declaration.
Mr. Hyzer then introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

RESOLVED, By the citizens of Janesville in public meeting assembled: That we believe from the best evidence we have that the striking miners have just cause for complaint and are entitled to our sympathy and assistance; that we believe wage workers have the right to combine and submit their case to the public; that we believe in the right of free speech and free public discussion; that we believe that interference by injunction with the right of peaceable assembly and public discussion is unjustifiable and contrary to the spirit of our institutions.

Wilson Lane endorsed what Mr. Hyzer said, especially in relation to injunctions. He was opposed to arming men to protect the mines. If he was governor of the state he would not allow it.

F. M. Marzluft insisted that if

"MIDNIGHT picnics" are "the latest." The first one was held at Spalding's Lake recently. The guests left Janesville in a carryall at 9:30 p. m., and supper was served sharp at the midnight hour. Ghost stories were then told, and the fun lasted until the early hours of the morning.

SETTLEMENT IS SET ASIDE

Judge Bennett Acts on the Suit Against Monticello Village.

Judge John B. Bennett's last decision prior to his departure on a trip on the lakes, was the setting of the Taft damage suit for the October term. The plaintiff in the case is Mrs. S. C. Taft, who claims damage from the village of Monticello as the result of a sidewalk accident. The settlement was set aside upon the motion of J. L. Sherron, attorney for the plaintiff upon the grounds of undue influence and that the settlement was made unknown to the plaintiff's attorney. It is claimed that when the settlement was made no one present except the plaintiff and village president and village attorney. The plaintiff is 72 years of age and she was paid $50 and $25 attorney fees. In setting aside the settlement the court held that the stipulation agreed upon between the parties was inadequate.

CLAM SHELLS SOLD AT VERY LOW PRICES

ANOTHER BUYER INVADERS THE FIELD.

He Only Wanted Twelve Tons, However, and Got Them At Almost His Own Price—Will Not Buy More At Present—Hunters Anxious to Unload.

Adolph Masinda, a clam shell jobber, of the firm of Masinda & Hak, of No. 312 East Seventy-fifth street, New York City, this morning bought twelve tons of shells from local hunters. The prices paid brought sorrow to the hearts of the hunters who had been expecting $20 a ton, for this morning they willingly parted with their shells at prices ranging from $5 to $11 a ton.

At the Northwestern freight depot twenty men were kept busy unloading shells. Draymen's wagons came up one after the other, and among the group of men the center of attraction was a small slim build man of German-Jewish descent. His knowledge of the English language seemed limited, and many motions were made in consequence. This man was Adolph Masinda and with the assistance of Harry Dyerkosken of 461 South Franklin street, he was able to close several deals with local clam hunters and at the same time explain to them just what he wanted.

Mr. Masinda said he was here to purchase a car load, or twelve tons, and that he would ship them to his New York firm before he undertook the purchase of any more.

Low Prices Rule.

The twenty hunters present had at least fifty tons of shells for sale, and as soon as they found that only twelve tons were wanted, the cutting of prices began. All were willing to let the shells go at almost any price. The first four tons placed on the scales were the property of Thomas Sullivan and George Croft, of this city, and as the young men were first on the scene they obtained $11 a ton. As soon as the glad word that a buyer was in town was circulated, the hunters sought him in droves. At last accounts shells were going begging at prices as low as $5 a ton.

Among the interested spectators was Richard F. Finley, the local agent of the first New York house that opened business here. Mr. Finley said he was not surprised that new buyers were invading the field, but that he was surprised to see the shells offered at such low figures.

Mr. Masinda is quartered at the European hotel. To a Gazette man he stated that he would buy no more shells here until he knew just what the firm thought of the purchase.

WORK ON CAMBRIDGE LINE

Engine Is Received, Tested and Accepted—Business Satisfactory.

Engine No. 1, owned by the Chicago & Lake Superior railway, now hauls the cars over their road. The new engine arrived last Saturday, and was put together on Sunday and a trial trip made over the road. It did satisfactory work and was accepted. The passenger coach which was purchased some three weeks ago, has not yet arrived, but we are creditably informed that it will be here in a very short time. So far, so good. The Northwestern company have completed the new switch track and built additional 150 feet of new platform so that the connections are now first-class at London. The receipts of the first month's business have been such as to warrant the operation of the road. The work of building an engine house, coal sheds, stock yards and the erection of a windmill and such other necessary work will be pushed right ahead.

TWO BIG DAMAGE SUITS ARE BEGUN.

Mrs. W. H. Spencer Claims to Have Been Seriously Injured When a Volume of Water Rushed Into the Car From An Unknown Source—Husband Also Has Claim.

Janesville attorneys have been retained in two damage suits against the C. M. & St. Paul road. Mrs. H. L. Spencer of Delavan, has commenced suit against that company for $50,000 damages for injuries claimed to have been received while riding on the company's train between Chicago and Western Union Junction, early in September, 1895.

Mrs. Spencer alleges that while asleep in the car with the window open a large volume of water rushed in on her head and shoulders and in consequence of which she was seriously injured. Where the water came from seems to be something of a mystery, which may be solved on the trial.

H. L. Spencer, the husband, has also brought an action claiming $25,000 damages for loss of services, etc.

Messrs. Fethers, Jeffris, Fifield & Mount represent the plaintiff in both actions, the company of course being defended by Burton Hansen, its general solicitor. This promises to be one of the most interesting cases to be tried on the October term of court at Elkhorn.

CHAPTER I.—Fifteen years before the opening of the story John Lewis went to live in a place called Lee, in New Hampshire, with a little girl six years old, Virginia, the daughter of his deceased sister. He had a son who had been left at school, but ran away and shipped for China. Five years after Lewis went to Lee a family named Marvel settled there. Young Walter Marvel met and loved Virginia Lewis. Alice Marvel, Walter's sister, and Harry Lucas also met and were reported to be in love with each other. At the opening of the story a person purporting to be the missing son of John Lewis arrives at Lee. Walter Marvel proposes for Virginia's hand to her uncle, who refuses, telling him that his uncle, whose name he bears, was a villain and a convict. Young Marvel draws a pistol and shoots at Lewis, but his aim is diverted by Virginia. Soon after Lewis is found dead in his room with two bullet holes in his body. His death occurs simultaneously with the arrival of the man who claims to be his son. It is Mr. Barnes, the celebrated detective, and Tom Burrows, another detective, take up the case, strongly suspecting Virginia as the criminal. III.—They examine the grounds about the house where the murder is committed and find footprints of a man and a woman, the woman's footprints strengthening their suspicions of Virginia. They also find two pistols, one marked "Virginia Lewis," the other marked "Alice Marvel." Virginia writes a letter and goes away with it. Barnes disguised follows her.

CHAPTER IV. THE LETTER.

When Mr. Barnes reached the road, he started on a run, for he was anxious to overtake Virginia Lewis before she should discover that she was watched by Burrows. After what he had just learned, he very much doubted whether his young assistant would be able to circumvent this shrewd girl. It is not as easy to shadow a person along a lonely country road as it might be in a city, where the crowded streets offer ready opportunities for hiding.

As Virginia had only a few minutes start of the detective and walked at a moderate gait, Mr. Barnes caught sight of her just as she began to cross the bridge. As she passed over it he noted that she was attracted by something, for she stopped, looked over the rail and then around her in every direction. Mr. Barnes was glad that he had found a chance to assume some sort of disguise, as there was no way of avoiding her gaze. In a moment she went on, and when he reached the bridge he saw at once what had aroused her caution. It was the sight of her own boat, which Burrows had used to reach the place. As she knew that she had left it up the stream the night before, its presence at this landing must have been sufficient to indicate to her that she was being followed, for she had evidently chosen the time for her errand when she knew the detectives had gone off exploring near the river bank. It was easy for her to guess that her departure from the farm had been observed and that her own boat had brought a spy after her.

Mr. Barnes was disappointed that she should have thus been placed upon her guard. She would now almost certainly not post her letter at the office. She walked on about 100 yards beyond the bridge, and from the alert glances which she cast about her it was plain that she was looking for the detective, of whose presence she felt assured. She passed the postoffice, and going a little farther entered a house on the opposite side of the road. Mr. Barnes did not follow, because there was nothing to be gained. She was beyond his reach for

She stopped and looked over the rail, the present, and having seen him behind her may have entered a friend's house merely to observe him as he went by, being suspicious of strangers. He therefore went into the saloon where he had met the squire that same morning. If Virginia was watching him, it would perhaps disarm her suspicion of him, since it was a natural place whereat one dressed as he was might stop. Furthermore, being near the postoffice, he could watch that place and see if she mailed her letter herself or by proxy, sending some one from where she was. He was scarcely within the doorway before he became aware of the presence of Tom Burrows, who was seated near the window and evidently watching the postoffice. Satisfied, therefore, that there was no immediate need for him to do so also, and noticing that the place was more than ordinarily crowded and that the inmates were in deep conversation over some very absorbing topic, which he at once guessed must be the murder, Mr. Barnes moved to the back of the store and mingled with the loungers there.

Almost the first person whom he noticed was Will Everly, the young man with whom he had had the brief conversation in the earlier part of the day.

He was still staunchly defending his friend Marvel. "I tell you, Harrison," he was saying, "it is wrong in you to accuse Walter of this thing when you know very well that he has not been in this neighborhood since the night of that party, when he and Lewis had the spat?" "Spat? That's a mild way to put it when he tried to shoot the old man." The speaker was the man who had given the information about the snow. "But I say, Everly, I don't exactly accuse Marvel. I merely say it's a bad business for him, seen as how he threatened to do this very thing."

"Well, what if he did? A threat when a man is mad is a very different thing from actually committing a murder. As to that, why, Lucas threatened him too."

"Why, of course, I hope Marvel will come out all right. He's a fine fellow, and I like him. It's a lucky thing the squire had them detectives right on the spot. They'll clear up matters mighty quick, I reckon."

"Whatever they do, they won't find that Walter is in this ugly business. I can prove that he was not in town any way."

"How kin you do that?"

Mr. Barnes became interested at once.

"Why, I have a letter from him this morning from Epping."

"Bosh! What does that amount to? That's only five miles off."

Mr. Barnes noticed that Everly spoke louder than was absolutely necessary, and as he glanced toward Burrows occasionally it seemed that his gesture of his friend was in a measure meant for that detective's ears. At this point a lad entered and, approaching Everly, said:

"Will, Miss Alice asks you if you can go as far as New Market for her."

"Tell her I'll be with her as soon as I can hitch up my horse." As Everly started to go Mr. Barnes touched him on the arm and said:

"Friend, if you are going to New Market I'll thank you to give me a lift if you would be so kind. It will save me a long walk."

"Who are you?" Everly was suspicious of strangers.

"I live up on the Nottingham road and am going to New Market to try for work on the new factory they are building. I am a carpenter by trade."

"All right," said Everly, after a little more hesitation; "look out for me as I come back, and I'll pick you up."

As soon as he had gone Mr. Barnes took a notebook from his pocket and, tearing out a page, wrote as follows:

DEAR TOM—It is of no use. She saw the boat and has taken the alarm. I think she means to send the letter to the post at New Market. If you see me, remain in the wagon with Everly. You will know that this surmise on my part is correct. In that case I will take care of the letter. Tell no one where I have gone, even though I should not return for a day or two. Tell the squire to impel his jury, turn the body over to a doctor for a post mortem and then adjourn until I get back. Meanwhile keep your eyes open. Watch young Lewis! Remember he is a stranger and should prove his identity beyond a doubt, especially if a will turns up drawn in his favor. Pump him all you can without his suspecting that you have a motive. BARNES.

Having written this note, the next thing to do was to give it to Burrows without arousing suspicion of collusion. It must be borne in mind that every one present knew that the man by the window was a detective, and, further, that Burrows had failed to recognize Mr. Barnes in his disguise. The latter went to the door and stood there a few minutes, whistling a tune that was a great favorite with Burrows. He kept this up until at length he attracted his notice. As soon as this was accomplished, having his back to the others, he slightly lifted his false beard, thus revealing his identity, and then held up the note. Sure then that Burrows understood him, he dropped into a chair, picked up a copy of the Boston Herald which lay there and pretended to read, until Everly at length appeared in the road. He then simply laid the paper down, having hidden the note therein, and, joining Everly, was taken into the wagon. Thus nothing was left to Burrows but to possess himself of the newspaper and note, which he easily did.

Reaching the house into which Virginia had gone, the horse was stopped, and Everly jumped out. He started to enter the gate leading to the dwelling, when the main door was opened, and a young woman, emerging therefrom, came down the gravel walk to meet him. She greeted him familiarly, and they stood conversing in low tones for a few moments. Mr. Barnes watched them closely in his endeavor to see whether she intrusted a letter to his care. He did not actually detect her doing so, but he saw by the motion of Everly's arm that he carefully placed something in the inner pocket of his coat. Satisfied that this was the letter the superscription of which he was so anxious to see, he determined to keep his seat and accompany Everly to New Market. On the road thither he attempted but little conversation, fearing to reveal his identity and thus destroy all hopes of success. As his companion seemed little inclined to talk, the trip, which occupied about three-quarters of an hour, was made in comparative silence.

Arrived at New Market, he deemed it best to alight as soon as they reached the hotel. Entering, he posted himself so as to watch whither Everly should drive, and the latter, entirely unconscious as to whom he had thought with him, went straight to the postoffice, situated about a block farther. With considerable satisfaction Mr. Barnes saw him presently emerge again and immediately turn his horse's head homeward, thus showing that his sole errand to the town had been to post the letter.

As soon as Everly was out of sight Mr. Barnes removed his disguise and, making a bundle of the overalls, intrusted it to the care of the hotel clerk, to be kept until he should call again. He then hurried over to the postoffice, where he asked for the postmaster. At this official he declared himself to be a detective and, stating that in his letter a letter had just been mailed to an important witness in a case which he was investigating, received permission to examine the letters unopened. This he proceeded to do, and at length he found the object of his search. He held in his hand a letter the contents of which he thought would throw considerable light on the mystery. He copied the address, which was as follows:

"Walter Marvel, Esq., Portsmouth, N. H. Keep it called for."

Leaving the office, Mr. Barnes hurried over to the railroad station, and purchasing a ticket for Portsmouth was soon on his way thither.

Arriving there that same evening, he lost no time in proceeding to call on the postmaster of the city, and, acquainting him with the nature of his business, easily arranged a plan whereby he hoped to discover Walter Marvel. As the man whom he was seeking was an entire stranger to him, it would be impossible to recognize him. Therefore he determined to station himself at the inquiry window and arranged a signal whereby the clerk was to warn him when any one should ask for a letter for Walter Marvel. As, however, he was informed that the mail just in would not be ready for delivery until the following morning he went to a hotel and retired for the night.

The postoffice opened at 7 o'clock, and promptly at that hour Mr. Barnes commenced his vigil. He did not have his patience very sorely tried, for it was scarcely 8 o'clock when he received the signal from the postal clerk and saw the letter handed to a man at the window.

Not knowing whether this was Marvel himself or merely some messenger, Mr. Barnes determined for the present simply to follow him, more especially as he did not break the seal of the letter, but after glancing at the address consigned it to his pocket. Leaving the building, the man proceeded to a small hotel, at a considerable distance from the postoffice and in the vicinity of the docks. Mr. Barnes concluded that it was little more than a sailors' boarding house, and it puzzled him to guess why Marvel had chosen this place. Entering the door, which led on a level with the street, the man seated himself on a chair and then, producing the letter, broke the seal and read.

The act satisfied Mr. Barnes that Walter Marvel was before him, but it suited him still to spy awhile upon his movements, hoping thereby to learn something. Of course Marvel could not guess that the man standing in the doorway was a detective or that he was watched. Therefore he would act as his real intentions prompted him. He seemed wholly absorbed in the paper before him, which he read and reread a number of times, ending by crumpling it up in his hand and starting up from his chair. He stood gazing from the window awhile and then paced nervously up and down. This lasted some minutes, when he suddenly resumed his seat, took the crumpled letter from his pocket where he had thrust it and carefully smoothed out the creases on his knee. He again read its contents over and over. Suddenly, with a smothered ejaculation, he tore the letter into pieces and scattered them on the floor. Then he spoke a few words to the hotel clerk and hurried up stairs.

Mr. Barnes at once proceeded to collect the scattered fragments of the letter and, carefully placing them in an envelope, consigned that to his wallet until such time as he might be able to match the pieces together again. This done, he quietly seated himself and waited.

In about ten minutes Walter Marvel reappeared, coming down the stairs, and hurried out to the street, Mr. Barnes following him.

He directed his course toward the wharfs and finally walked to the end of one, where he went aboard a schooner lying there. By inquiring among the longshoremen the detective soon learned that this vessel, the Eclipse, was bound for the West Indies and was to sail immediately. Mr. Barnes saw at once that it was now time to take active measures or he would lose his man after all. Boarding the vessel, he sought out the captain and explained to him what he wished to do. The master seemed of a surly disposition and little inclined to render any assistance. He did not, indeed, refuse to let Mr. Barnes see Marvel, but he positively declined to take any part in the matter himself.

Descending to the cabin, almost the first individual whom he met was Marvel, and Mr. Barnes, approaching him, addressed him as follows:

"Mr. Marvel, I believe?"

"That is my name, but you are a stranger to me."

"Mr. Marvel, I have a very unpleasant duty to perform and hope you will pardon me if I proceed at once to explain, as I fear that the captain may sail at any minute."

"You cannot explain too quickly to suit me," replied Marvel.

"Mr. Marvel, how long is it since you left Wadley's Falls?"

"Why do you ask?"

"Please answer me first, and I promise full explanation afterward."

"That arrangement does not suit me. You are a stranger to me—I do not even know how it is that you are acquainted with my name—and I therefore deny that you have any right to question me."

"Mr. Marvel, I am a detective."

"Well?"

"A murder has been committed at Wadley's Falls, and"—Mr. Barnes paused to note the effect of his words, but Marvel seemed turned to stone, he was so impassive—"will you venture to guess who the victim is?"

"John Lewis!" said Marvel in a hoarse whisper. He dropped into a chair and buried his face in his hands. His trouble seemed so poignant that for some minutes Mr. Barnes could not find it in his heart to disturb him. Finally, however, realizing that time was precious, he said:

"Mr. Marvel, will you return with me to Lee?"

"Why should I?" answered Marvel, looking up suddenly, aroused by the question.

"Because it may be necessary for you to prove your whereabouts on that night in order to disarm suspicion, and"—

"Do you mean to accuse me of this crime?" said Marvel vehemently.

"I never make an accusation till I have positive proof," returned Mr. Barnes, "and that I have not in this case—at least not yet. I advise you to keep your temper and be guarded in what you say, for your words may be used against you."

"You are insolent! How dare you speak to me in that way?"

"Come, Mr. Marvel; time presses. Will you accompany me peacefully?"

"Do you mean as your prisoner?"

"No. Let us say as a witness." But at that word Marvel recoiled and seemed alarmed. All the anger departed from his voice as he said:

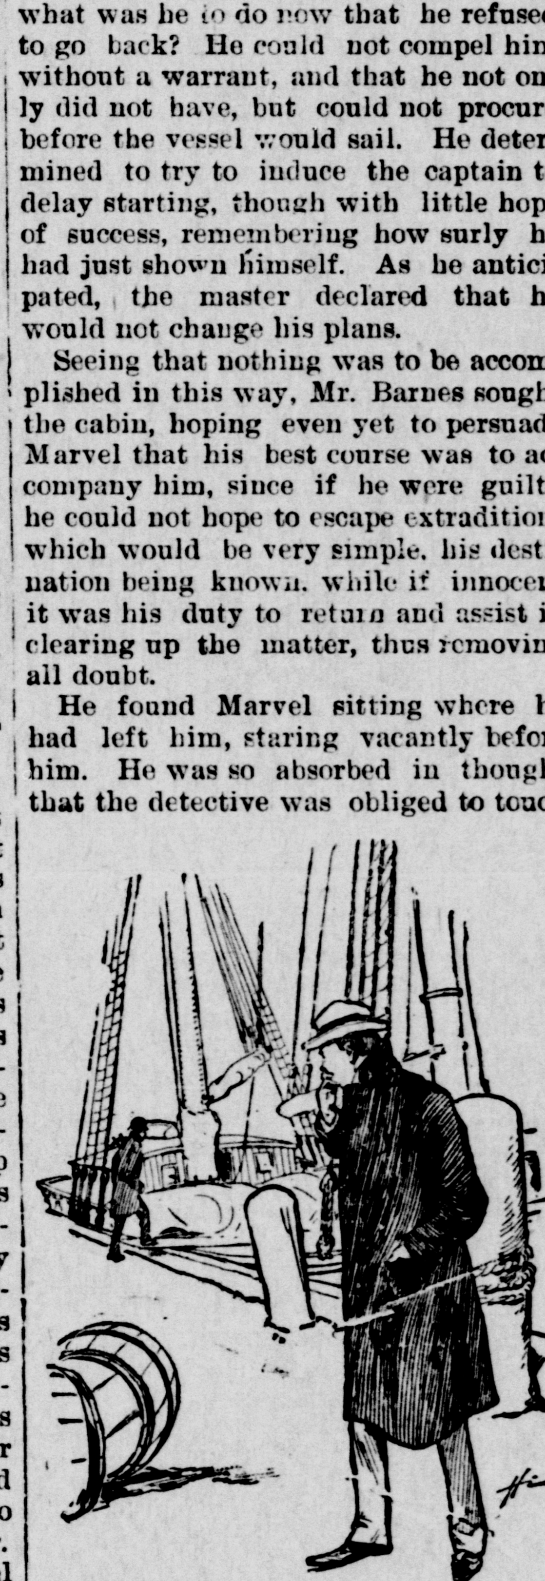

"Have you a warrant for my arrest? Can you force me to go?"

Mr. Barnes shook his head negatively, and Marvel heaved a sigh of relief as he muttered: "Then I will not go. I cannot. I cannot."

Mr. Barnes was nonplused. He had counted on finding Marvel willing—nay, anxious—to return as soon as he should know that there was any possibility of his being implicated in the crime. But what was he to do now that he refused to go back? He could not compel him without a warrant, and that he not only did not have, but could not procure before the vessel would sail. He determined to try to induce the captain to delay starting, though with little hope of success, remembering how surly he had just shown himself. As he anticipated, the master declared that he would not change his plans.

Seeing that nothing was to be accomplished in this way, Mr. Barnes sought the cabin, hoping even yet to persuade Marvel that his best course was to accompany him, since if he were guilty he could not hope to escape extradition, which would be very simple, his destination being known, while if innocent it was his duty to return and assist in clearing up the matter, thus removing all doubt.

He found Marvel sitting where he had left him, staring vacantly before him. He was so absorbed in thought that the detective was obliged to touch

He went aboard a schooner lying there, him to attract attention, and then, before Mr. Barnes could say a word, Marvel exclaimed:

"Is it you? I am glad. I will go back with you."

"You will go back with me?" Mr. Barnes was much surprised at this sudden change.

"Yes. I am sorry now that I refused at first. I see that it is the best course to pursue. Yet I had reasons that seemed to me at the first moment of my surprise to be unanswerable and which led to my decision. I am now ready and anxious to accompany you."

Mr. Barnes scrutinized Marvel closely to determine whether this were a genuine or an assumed manner. He was puzzled.

"I am glad," said he, "that you will go peacefully. You save me a great deal of trouble. I would have taken you back, even though it had been necessary to get a warrant and follow you to sea in a tug. Then you would have been under arrest. Now, since you offer no resistance, you shall receive every consideration. I will take you back as a witness."

"I will not go with you as a witness. I will submit to arrest, though you have no warrant, but if I go with you it must be as your prisoner."

"As you please. It matters not, so long as you return."

Mr. Barnes and Marvel left Portsmouth on the first train available and reached Wadley's Falls the next morning. While on the train Mr. Barnes found an opportunity to be alone in the smoking car long enough to piece together the fragments of the letter which he had picked up when thrown away by Marvel. With mucilage which he had procured at Portsmouth he pasted each piece to another sheet so that finally the letter was once more legible. It read as follows:

After the events of last night it is best that you leave the country. Do so without delay. It would be madness to think of marriage now. Farewell! VIRGIE.

After studying this for a long time Mr. Barnes was forced to admit that the whole affair was as great a mystery as ever.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

Inspired by Oom Paul's Minister.
Berlin, Aug. 14.—It is creditably stated that the articles which were published Thursday by the Post, Tageblatt and National Zeitung, attacking Great Britain's claim to suzerainty over the Transvaal, and declaring the Transvaal does not recognize such claim, were inspired by Dr. Leyds, the plenipotentiary of the South African Republic to the European governments.

Will Collect the Royalties.
Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 14.—The dominion government is fully determined to collect royalties from miners in the Klondike and elsewhere in the Canadian territory on the Yukon. Arrangements are now being made to see that royalty fees are collected.

All fruits and vegetables on hand at 8 o'clock will be closed out regardless of cost. We never carry any thing of this kind over Sunday. It must be sold. C. A. Sanborn.

SHADOWED

A Conflict of Evidence

By Rodrigues Ottolengui, a most absorbing detective story. We have never offered a more exciting narrative to our readers. The first chapters will be found in these columns.

Government Reduces Its Claims.
Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 14.—Maj. Walsh, who commanded the northwest mounted police during the Riel rebellion, has been appointed administrator of the Yukon district at a salary of $5,000 a year. The department of the interior has amended the law governing placer mining by reducing the length of the claims to 100 feet. The fee for the renewal of an entry for a claim has been reduced from $100 to $15.

Work for a Thousand Men.
Peoria, Ill., Aug. 14.—The grain buyer for the lower sugar works, which passed into the control of the new glucose trust yesterday, began buying corn to-day, and operations will be resumed as soon as 100,000 bushels can be secured. This, with the cooper shops and other industries dependent upon it, will give employment to 1,000 men.

Supplies Are Sent to Dyea.
Astoria, Ore., Aug. 14.—The steamer Mayflower, towing a large barge loaded with supplies, has left for Dyea. She will take the inner passage and her captain anticipates no trouble in reaching his destination.
